FILM TOUR AND INSPIRATIONAL SCHOOL PROGRAM

WHAT IS ALISON'S ADVENTURES

Alison's Adventures is a film series dedicated to enlightening and educating the kid in everyone through entertainment that leads to action!

Alison Teal is an explorer, survivalist, surfer and award winning film maker who travels the world filming environmental and cultural phenomena. Alison was named the “Female Indiana Jones” by Time Magazine (2015) and the “Oprah of Adventure” by The Huffington Post and O Magazine (2016).

Alison, a female Indiana Jones, spent her childhood home-schooled in a whirlwind of high adventure by her extreme expedition parents — her father being a world-renowned photographer who's work has been featured in numerous outdoor magazines including National Geographic, Outside and Patagonia, and her mother a legendary Yogi. Alison grew up living in some of the most primitive, inaccessible, and dangerous areas on earth.

Now that Alison is old enough to drive her own camel, she bases out of her ‘Swiss Family Robinson’ style sustainable grass shack in Hawaii, and travels the world with her pink eco surfboard shooting her Alison's Adventures film series - which she writes, directs, produces, hosts, and edits.

In each Alison's Adventures film, Alison accompanies a local companion on a wild adventure, offering viewers a special passport into her global family and their secrets to survival, sustainability, and happiness.

Each film calls attention to global, environmental, and human issues through entertaining story lines that educate and inspire viewers to be a part of the solution. Alison believes humor is the most important thing to pack for an adventure.

With her fearless passion for life, and comedic timing, Alison dives into communities living off the beaten path to unearth customs and curious traditions, investigate ancient myths and legends, showcase the importance of family, and inspire eco-lifestyles. Alison's Adventures will inspire audiences to take risks, embrace change, and realize that every dream can come true.
